General Comment

The government has put the United States in debt, they can't even balance the budget, and now they want to put a bunch of bureaucrats in charge of my retirement. Thanks, but no thanks! I can plan my own retirement.

If the U.S. government is so concerned about our personal finances, then why don't they encourage finance classes in public schools? Americans would learn how to manage their money -- and perhaps our future politicians and bureaucrats would learn a thing or two about how to manage our tax dollars.
